Council To Protest Cut In Rail Service

On Monday afternoon last a deputation of business men of Haliburton appeared before the members of the Dysart council to enlist their support in maintaining tri-weekly rail service from Lindsay to Haliburton.

Council gave the deputation a most considerate hearing and stated that they were prepared to do anything within their power to press for the three day per week service.

All were agreed that anything less would mean, in a very short time, railway service would cease, insofar as Lindsay to Haliburton is concerned.

Following a thorough discussion of the railway service from every angle, as it effects us in this area, council passed the following motion:

Be it resolved that the clerk and Mr. R. J. Curry compose and send to the Department of Transport a strong letter of protest relative to the curbing of rail activity into Haliburton.

Attached to this letter will be a petition which is being circulated within the municipality. We estimate that some 600 people have already signed the petition and as the petition has one more week to go, many more can be expected to sign.

Petitions are also located in Donald, Lochlin, Gelert, Kinmount, Burnt River and Fenelon Falls.

Tourists In Haliburton Take Off

Most everyone who summers around Ontario's highland lakes knows the two trim little Piper seaplanes of the Haliburton Air Service. At some time during the week, one of the planes is sure to zoom down over the evergreens and skim in for a landing. Now and then, charter passengers are waiting at the dock. More often, the local vacationers line up to sample what is fast becoming an established summer pastime in the Haliburton district: the sightseeing air junket.

Ex-RCAF mechanic Ron Tyler, who owns HAS, discovered his fellow man's yen to rubber-neck by air several years ago. Since 1947, when Tyler first set up shop on Lake Kashagawigamog with a single second hand Seabee amphibian, barnstorming the lake communities at three dollars a flip has successfully backboned his summertime trade. "The sightseers don't seem to mind where we fly them," says Tyler. "Just so long as we fly."

Actually, the Haliburton air-flip is currently one of the most fascinating adventures within reach of the Ontario holidayer's pocket-book. In one 20-minute swing from his vacation lake, an HAS passenger can glimpse areas that a few years ago were known only to Indian trappers, loggers or government surveyors. When Tyler first began flying in the highlands, lakes such as Boshkung, Ninitiga, Kushog and Kawagama were scarcely on the map, let alone familiar to vacationers. "Now," grins HAS's boss, a born-and-bred Haliburton man, "you can follow the tough old canoe trails and still get back to the cottage in time for lunch."

While the sightseeing traffic keeps his two aircraft and three staff pilots busily like-hopping during the summer season, Tyler also handles a year-round charter service. (He replaces his pontoons with skis in the winter.) "Sometimes prospectors," he explains, "But mostly hunters and fishermen. We've got about 1,000 good fishing lakes to choose from around here. One of my first jobs was to fly in and stock them with speckled trout."

As well, the planes are on constant call as airborne ambulances. During the past 13 years they have made scores of 60 minute sprints from local lake resorts to Toronto with emergency hospital cases aboard.

HAS pilots are also becoming well-known as the eyes of Haliburton's lost and found patrol. At least half a dozen lost hunters or fishermen are located by the air service each year. In 1959, Tyler spotted a group of scouts who had wandered off course during a bush hike, flew them back to safety in relays.

How do the flyers know the wanderers down below are lost? Says Tyler: "They wave to us like crazy. These days, we know an aircraft isn't much of a curiosity in the highlands. So if anyone looks particularly interested in us, we usually fly in to investigate."

Record Enrolment At High School

At the time the establishment of a county area high school in the Provisional County of Haliburton was first under discussion, officials of the Department of Education stated that an enrolment of at least 150 pupils would be necessary before the matter would be considered.

When a survey was made it was ascertained that at least 200 scholars would be in attendance and shortly after the plans were laid for the construction of the new high school. This year sees a record enrolment of 432 pupils in attendance. This we might add is an increase of 35 over the previous year.

Not only have we a lot of new scholars at our high school, but we have four new teachers, namely Mr. R. Sharrette, who comes here from Sudbury and will teach French and Latin; Mrs. M. Kuno, who was attached to the Bicroft public school, will conduct the classes in home economics; Mr. John Gill of Toronto, who we might state, holds a master of arts degree and who has been a member of a team which has made a geological survey, will be giving instruction in science and geology and Mr. William Munro formerly of Peterboro, will teach forestry and science. If our information is correct this is the first time that fo-

WHAT DYSART COUNCIL DID

Dysart council met on Monday, September 12, 1960 at 9 a.m. with all members present.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting, general accounts Nos. 723 to 812 amounting to $26,899.64 were duly passed. Direct relief accounts for August amounting to $560.65 were also passed. Relief accounts for August of one year ago amounted to $759.14, so it will be seen that at present unemployment as far as Dysart is concerned, does not appear to be a matter for much concern.

It was moved that the Department of Highways of Ontario be petitioned for the interim statutory subsidy on a total expenditure of $64,022.55 from January 1 to August 31, 1960, approved under by-laws 60-5 and 60-13.

A by-law to incorporate South KENNIS Drive in the townships of Havelock and Guilford into the municipal road system was given first reading.

The matter of the width of Highway 519 across lots 1 to 5, concession 1, Dysart, and the damage to fences along the north side of same are to be drawn to the attention of the Department of Highways.

That the clerk write to the Dept. of Lands and Forests to determine the status of the road from the municipal road to the Harburn fire tower.

That Harold Brodhagen be written requesting him to endeavor to curtail the noise created by his dogs and informing him that unless it is curtailed, legal action will be taken immediately.

That application be made to the Canadian National Railways to purchase the right of way of the I.B.&O. in the Township of Harcourt.

The following conveyances of land were approved as required in by-law 59-8:

Lot 16, con. IX of the Township of Guilford from Calvin and Beatrice Bailey to Ivor and Jean Ley.

Part of lot 15 and 16, con. IX in Township of Harburn from Clayton W. Hodgson to J. Douglas Hodgson and his wife Barbara Hodgson.

Part of lots 15 and 16, con. IX Harburn from Clayton W. Hodgson to Louis M. Hodgson and his wife Cleo Hodgson.

Part of lot 15 and part of original allowance for road between lots 15 and 16 closed by by-law 1161 all in concession IX in the Township of Harburn from Clayton W. Hodgson to Anna English.

Part of lots 15 and 16, con. IX, township of Harburn and part of the intervening original allowance for road closed by by-law 1161 from Clayton W. Hodgson to Richard E. and Marguerite Sutton.

Part of lot 4, con. V in the township of Guilford from Basil Cooper to Edward Ramage.

Part of lot 4, con. V, in restry, has been taught in any high school or collegiate in the province.

We welcome these new citizens to this area and trust that they will enjoy living and working in the Highlands of Haliburton.

The number on the high school staff at present is 18 and in case you are interested the new addition is supposed to be ready for classes in late October.

A Day at the Fair

Saturday at noon was a grand day, a little cool and breezy, but still nice and sunny. Nearly everyone turped up at the Minden fair sooner or later and the crowd numbered about 2,500.

With the smaller ring busy most of the time with horses and ponies, and the race track in use with races by various groups. A continuous show was carried on from 1 p.m. until all were ready to leave.

The genial emcee, Bob Harvey Jr., kept all the events in order and made introductions to all the various numbers. Peter the Clown was an attraction for both year and old.

An item of note was the 4-H calf club achievement day and the younger members received their various awards.

Added to this was the music of the Barrie Pipe Band with members dressed in traditional uniforms and playing many times during the afternoon.

When the judging in the show building was completed many excellent exhibits of fine hand work, domestic science, vegetables, fruit and grain were on display.

This year the vegetable and fruit show was a good deal better as the frost had held off and all were freshly picked. Outside were the cages of poultry, ducks, some cats and kittens.

The best dog on a lead was taken by Bobby Burns and second by Master Robinson of Ingoldsby.

The winner of the draw of $100 was George Cowan and his son sold the winning ticket and received $25. Winner of $50 was T. Vallas of Oak Ridges and of the $20 was Garnet Francis of Gelert. The sweater draw for the curling club was won by Mrs. Arnold Gartshore.

Winner of the fiddlers' contest was Tim Huntingdon of Minden and the step dance was Fred Reynolds.

The horseshoe pitching resulted in a win for the "men in blue," Jack Eastwood and Earl Bush, with a second for Frank Page and Larry Lonsberry.

A special word should be said of the work by the president and his genial wife, Garnet and Ila Lytle and other members of the executive and board who have literally "lived the fair" for the past several weeks.

A fair is only as successful as its workers and we are fortunate in having such a splendid society. Keep on with the good work and may your fair be even better another year.

LANDS & FORESTS REPORT

A conviction was recently registered against a scarboro man for setting out a fire without obtaining a fire permit from the Dept. of Lands and Forests or a township fire warden.

This man had previously obtained fire permits and therefore was acquainted with the regulations concerning the use of fires in forested areas.

On August 15, with the fire hazard on the upswing, the Gooderham and Harvey detection towers located the smoke at 3:15 p.m. and reported it to the chief ranger headquarters.

A crew was immediately dispatched and arrived at the scene at 4:05 p.m. to find the owner of the lot burning slash without a fire permit and possibly endangering other properties due to the high fire danger rating.

The Ontario Provincial Police made an investigation and a charge was laid under the Forest Fires Prevention Act. On August 30 the owner of the lot was convicted and fined $25 and $3 court costs.

A fire permit does not absolve the permittee of his responsibility of keeping his fire under control and extinguish it properly, but it does inform the forest rangers and detection towers of the expected fire location, thus relieving them of making unnecessary investigations.

Consult your nearest forest ranger or warden on your brush disposal problems and obtain a burning permit before attempting to burn.

Council recommended that the council for the year of 1961, when setting up its budget, give consideration to a grant towards the construction of a dock at the Rotary beach.

Eleventh Installment Chapter 6

THE OLD ORDER CHANGES

Contrary to the optimistic expectations of the Victoria Railway's promoters, the first thing the railway did was to provide egress for the dissatisfied and the ones with restless feet who are all their lives destined to seek the last frontier.

It is estimated that over 1,000 people left Haliburton county to seek their fortunes in the west. This was the era when Sir Wilfred Laurier cried the challenge "Go West!" The exodus which began in 1882 was directed at the Canadian prairies and Dakota. Whole settlements got the fever. From Lutterworth township John Carpenter from the east side of Denny's Lake and his neighbors the Ottos, the Nelsons, the Knowles and the Hilliers emigrated to the famous Red River valley in Dakota.

The Noice family who came to Minden as early as 1858 to homestead on the Bobcaygeon road also went to Dakota where a town in the northern part of the state, "Noyce" is named in their honor. The only member of the family to remain in Minden was Edward Noice who became deputy registrar under S. S. Peck.

Mr. R. J. Taylor from the Scotch Line in Anson got the westward mania and moved his family to North Dakota but two years there was more than enough for him. He returned to Minden a poorer but wiser man who immediately purchased 200 acres on Mountain Lake from the widow Sharpe and proceeded to raise a family of nine healthy children whose descendants still live in the Minden area.

The exodus, though diminishing in volume, continued until World War I. There is hardly a family in the whole of Haliburton county which was established here before the turn of the century which has not contributed a son or daughter to the winning of the west.

One of the old timers who resisted the siren call of the prairies said of the exodus, "Half of Haliburton went west and never made enough money to come back."

Some however, did return, among them Mr. John Bowen of Harburn who tried in vain to become accustomed to the empty immensity of the prairies. After his return to Haliburton county he was heard to exclaim with fervent thankfulness, "I'll never leave again as long as a tree stands in Harburn!" The forest still grows in Harburn township and Mr. Bowen has been spared to spend his quiet years at Haliburton Lake, the land he loves.

Those who were able, sold their land holdings and shipped their household effects by rail. Some were so gripped by the burning desire to seek their fortunes on the frontiers of the west that they simply abandoned their houses and barns. In Dysart township alone the population was reduced from 139 in 1874 to 120 in 1883.

The competition for settlers which the western provinces now offered had a disastrous effect on the county's economy, saddled as it was by the new railway debt. Payments on the railway bond fell into arrears (county council minutes of 1881 carry in its expenditures the sum of $7.47 as interest on overdue interest).

In line with modern practice, the county council went in a body to secure aid from Queen's Park who declined to help on the grounds that funds were not available. (Could the recent loss in Victoria riding by S. S. Peck and the removal of his influence have had anything to do with the refusal?)

The council accepted the rebuff in good grace and wisely proceeded to straighten out their own affairs. Under the able leadership of the warden, W. Gainor, the county fought its way back to sound financial ground and by 1884 the danger of bankruptcy was removed.

The Canadian Land and Emigration Co. also found itself in difficulties as a result of its bond to the railway and the prosperity which did not as a result materialize. The aristocratic stockholders in England now despaired of ever receiving any returns from their investment in the nine townships whose development proved a march larger undertaking than the company's directors had anticipated. There is too an inference that the sale of the company's principal assets, the pine, was not in all cases handled to the company's greatest advantage.

The time was ripe for the purposes of a pair of shrewd Canadian business men, James M. Irwin, a lumber king whose head office was at Nassau, on the Trent River, and William H. L. Gordon, a Toronto lawyer.

Through a London agent the discouraged gentry sold gladly for shillings the shares they had so optimistically purchased for pounds. Negotiations began in 1882; Gordon and Irwin each bought 10,000 shares for a total of $80,000, assuming all the liabilities of the old company including the Victoria Railway bond.

When the deal was completed in 1884 the board of directors was transferred from London to Canada, (a special bill passed by the Ontario government legalized the change) and the Canadian Land and Immigration Co. emerged. For eight years until the $80,000 was paid off, the company was operated in trust by a board of commissioners which included, in addition to the new owners, Mr. Campbell and Mr. G. Ostler.

A depression in the 1890's upset J. M. Irwin's financial applecart. When he went broke the Canadian Bank of Commerce took over his assets and became owner of 49% of the Canadian Land and Immigration Co.

As the principal land owner in the nine townships, the land company, like most ratepayers felt that it should get some returns for its tax expenditure. Most of the softwood had now been removed from near the roads and waterways. Although the railway provided a new market for hardwood, when the transportable portion was gone the immigration company began to lobby for new roads to open up its back townships. These access roads became the chief bone of contention between the immigration company, who felt that the municipality should build the roads and the municipality who maintained that they were the company's private affair.

The consequent friction aided neither; like most cold wars it harmed both. Sometimes a truce would be reached and affairs would run smoothly for part of a decade before a new situation would arise which resulted in the inevitable litigation. Some of this strife was taken to the highest court of appeal in the British Empire, the privy council.

Could the immigration company have sold the townships which were not accessible by road, their tax payments might have been promptly met but the years added to instead of decreasing the tax burden on the nine townships, at least four of which had no settlers to share the load.

In order to finance the road from Haliburton to Redstone which would open Guilford township, the land company traded the township of Cylde to the Province of Ontario. To meet its commitments and raise capital to operate on the company sold the township of Bruton to the hydro electric power company who lumbered the cedar in Bruton swamp for poles to carry its power lines. Bruton was later transferred to the Department of Lands and Forests and may be incorporated into the Algonquin Park.

The depression which wrecked Wall Street in 1929 was eventually felt in the county of Haliburton. In 1932 the Canadian Land and Immigration Co. defaulted on its tax obligations to the municipality which was already in financial difficulties. That was the year the Municipality of Dysart et al was declared bankrupt.

No one who then lived in the nine townships will ever forget the lean years which followed when cash was as scarce as apple blossoms in October and the municipality issued its own currency which was used to pay those fortunate enough to get work on the roads. Everyone felt the pinch and bouncing cheques were for a time the rule rather than the exception.

Eventually a board of supervisors was appointed by the Ontario government to replace the first five local supervisors. It was headed by A. J. Grey who later achieved distinction in provincial affairs. This board which was accountable to the Department of Municipal Affairs in Toronto, lowered the assessment on the immigration company's inaccessible townships and raised the assessment on the more settled portions. This enabled the immigration company to begin paying its taxes and in 1941 the municipality was declared solvent and once again became master of its own destiny.

During the 1940's the Gordons and the Bank of Commerce had a split of physical assets and surrendered the charter of the Canadian Land and Immigration. The last of their limits in the townships of Guilford, Eyre, Havelock and Harburn were purchased by Hay & Co. of Woodstock, the Canadian branch of the United States Plywood Co.

The nine townships are now privately owned and the struggle between municipality and immigration company which extended over half a century and in retrospect has sometimes the qualities of a comic opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, sometimes a Greek tragedy, is ended forever.

A prime example of the inconvenience which resulted from the cold war between municipality and immigration company arose when Haliburton proposed to build its power plant. Every time the municipality's engineers chose a suitable site for the dam, the immigration company would veto it on the grounds that they owned all the water rights.

Eventually a lot was purchased from Charles Thayer and in spite of writs issued against the undertaking and consequent litigation, the plant was completed in 1928. It served the town of Haliburton well until following World War II when it was sold to W. O. Bailey & Sons. The Ontario hydro replaced the local service.

The first manager of the Haliburton Light and Power plant, James McCormack, will be long remembered for his devotion to duty, his compassionate heart and open purse. Two days before his untimely death he hired a truck to transport a Sunday school class to its annual picnic. He was a devoted brother and whenever asked for a donation to charity which required a receipt would request the collector to "put it down to the credit of my sister Maggie." When the heavenly records are audited his sister should certainly have a healthy balance in her favor.

Although Mr. Charles R. Stewart ceased to be associated with the emigration company in 1866, he continued to play an active part in the growth of both town and county. Mr. Stewart entered the employ of the Mossom Boyd Lumber Co. of Bobcaygeon who had purchased the rights to cut the pine from several of the emigration company's townships.

One of Mr. Stewart's chief contributions to Haliburton's economy was the dams built for the lumber company's drives which proved to the Ontario government that, with a proper system of control dams, the Haliburton lakes could act as a reservoir for the Trent Valley water system. A plan had been conceived in 1833 to link the waters of the Georgian Bay with Lake Ontario via Lake Simcoe when a survey conducted by N. H. Baird C.E. estimated that the system would cost £495,515. A committee to the legislature of Upper Canada recommended the construction of the upper part at a cost of £90,000. Most of the actual work at that time was done below Rice Lake.

Construction of locks at Bobcaygeon was begun in 1833 and 1834 by Messrs. Pearce, Dumble and Hoar who spent £16,000 but did not complete the project. The plan to use Balsam Lake as a reservoir was dropped because a high water level could not be maintained during the summer months.

Although Mossom Boyd, the lumber king, attempted to have the Trent canal system built by private enterprise, he was not successful but Mr. Stewart's triumph with the dams to facilitate the log drives led to the re-opening of the project.

A report in 1880 by T. D. Belcher, the superintendent engineer to the Minister of Railways and Canals enthusiastically recommended work begin on the whole system. He was backed up by the powerful lumbermen who drove their pine from central Ontario.

The Oliver Mowat administration was impressed and in 1884 construction was begun on the dams which would control the Gull River's level. By 1906 over 70 lakes in Peterboro and Haliburton had been acquired by the federal government to act as reservoirs. As the need for a heavier flow of water to operate the power plants of the Ontario hydro grows, new dams are needed.

For example, in 1941 the Orillia Water, Light and Power Commission (later absorbed by the Ontario hydro) built a dam on Raven Lake south of Dorset. Raven Lake is situated on the height of land between the Gull River and the Black River which drained Raven Lake into the Severn basin. The new dam raised the water level until the flow of water can be diverted into the Gull River system via Wren Lake, St. Nora's, etc. By lowering the water level with pulled stop logs the water can resume its normal course and flow into the Black River. Since Raven Lake has a surface area of over 1,000 acres, its reservoir assures a wide margin of safety for the Minden plan should the water level fall to the danger line.

As soon as possible the wooden dams built by the logging firms were replaced with cement structures constructed by the government. Before the dam which was to service the power plant for the Haliburton commission could be built on the river which drains Drag Lake, one of these wooden dams had to be removed. In spite of the years which had passed and the battering of the elements the wooden pins which held the whole structure together still served their purpose well. There was not one iron nail in the original dam.

The famous hydraulic lift lock at Peterboro was formally opened on July 9, 1904. The Kirkfield hydraulic lift lock which was at the same time under construction went into operation in 1907 which with the canal system extending from Healey Falls to Lake Couchiching plus the Scugog River, opened over 200 miles to inland navigation.

The Ontario-Rice lake division giving an outlet to Lake Ontario allowed the official party who opened the project to sail on June 3, 1918 from Trenton to Washago. War conditions had curtailed construction, but with the completion of the Port Severn lock and the marine railway in 1919 and the Couchiching lock near Washago, navigation was possible for vessels which could be accommodated by the marine railway, from Trenton to the Georgian Bay. The first vessel to make the voyage was the motor launch "Irene" which sailed from Trenton on July 3, 1920 and arrived on July 12 to climax Port Severn's celebration of the Boyne victory.

With boating such a popular summer pastime, the old "Iroquois trail" from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay which the Trent canal roughly follows, has become one of the most traveled water routes in Ontario. It was made possible by men of vision like Mr. Baird, Mossom Boyd and C. R. Stewart.

In Memoriam

Harrison—In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Cliff Harrison, who passed away September 11, 1951:

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Winnie and son-in-law Verle and family.

Dart—In loving memory of our father, William Reginald Dart, who passed away September 20, 1959:

In tears we saw you sinking
We watched you fade away;
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay,
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back dad,
To suffer that again.
—Always remembered by Jack, Jean, Larry and Ricky.

Morrison—In loving memory of Ellen Jane Morrison, who passed away September 6, 1956:

All to ourselves we think of you,
Thinking of things you use to do;
Thinking of things you use to say
Thinking of you in every way.
To us Nellie has not gone away,
Just entered God's eternal home.
—Dad, Annis and family.

Dummitt—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William S. Dummitt, who passed away so suddenly on September 17, 1958. Gone dear dad, so suddenly, How we miss your smiling face;

But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by wife and family.

Scheffee — In memory of a loving father who passed away September 8, 1954:

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true
Just a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you.
More and more each day we miss you
Though our thoughts are not revealed;
Little do they know the sorrow,
That is within our hearts concealed.
—Ever remembered by Verna, Max and family.

Here's the Modern Plan to get the things you need!

BANK OF MONTREAL

Family Finance Plan

Bring all your personal credit needs under one roof with a low-cost B of M life-insured loan

Here is the modern approach to finance the things you want to buy for your home and family... to take care of expenses for school, college, vacation and so on... and, of course, to meet emergencies.

The Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan enables you to plan your purchases and helps you meet unexpected expenses under one single comprehensive plan.

Here are four good reasons why—whether single or married—you should use the Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan...

- 1 All loans are automatically life-insured. Should you die before your loan is repaid, your debt to the Bank will be cancelled.
- 2 Monthly repayments can be extended up to two years—or even three, if need be. This means that FFP can be tailored to suit any salary.
- 3 You can borrow up to $3,500, depending on your income, to buy the things you want for your home and family, or to meet emergencies.
- 4 Planned repayments help you run your income—instead of letting it run you.

If you have a steady income and can make monthly loan-repayments without hardship, you can finance almost any useful purpose through the Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan. Why not talk to the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch... you'll like their helpful attitude. Whether you are a B of M customer or not, you will find a warm welcome.

HALIBURTON ROTARY

The Haliburton Rotary club held its weekly luncheon at the United church on Thursday evening last. Only four members were absent and two of the four members had made up previous to this meeting. We were glad to welcome Roy Borland, a guest of Ray Archer.

The local Rotarians are preparing to attend the district conference which is to be held this month at Delawana Inn, Honey Harbor.

Harold Black performed the duties of inducting a new member into the club, our new dentist, Terry Hicks.

The Rotary bulletin editor, Gerry Dawson, is on vacation at the present time. We understand he is flying out to Banff, Alta., for a holiday and a convention.

The speaker at the meeting was one of the local Rotarians, Harold Herlihey.

Harold recently attended the Harmsworth trophy races held at Picton. He was present for two days at the race and brought back some slides and films which he showed. They were very interesting and all of the members were quite delighted to see these pictures. Besides the very interesting slides and pictures, he also gave a run down on the highlights of this race. The speaker also had the opportunity while at Picton of meeting Bob Hayward, the driver of Miss Supertest.

President Frank Litt asked for volunteers to help take the carnival equipment from the arena to the home of Mr. G. H. Windsor where it will be stored for the winter.

Several members volunteered to be on hand to help.

CARNARVON

We wish to take this opportunity to extend our sympathy to the family of the late Mrs. N. Taylor of Hall's Lake. She had been ill but a short time and seemed to be recovering, so her death came as a shock to her family and friends. She was well known in the district, having taught sewing at the night classes in the high school at Haliburton as well as holding a sewing class at Carnarvon.

Friends of Mr. Hartley Harrison of Toronto were shocked when they learned of his passing last Friday night. He and his family had spent the summer in their home on Big Boskung and had just been in the city a few days when he died of a heart attack.

Three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rowden started to high school this fall. They are Blanche and Barbara who are twins and Lynda, who is a year younger.

Douglas Cowan is also a new pupil at Haliburton high. Doug showed several Shetlands at the Minden fair and brought home a number of ribbons. He also sold his father the lucky ticket for $100.

Miss Glenda Medley will attend teachers' college in Toronto. Miss Anne Pounds is training for a nurse in Peterboro and Miss Pat Cowan will attend the ladies' college in Whitby. We are sorry to lose these three girls, but wish them every success.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Coulter of Campbell River, B.C., arrived in Malton on Friday and then motored to Minden and Carnarvon on a surprise visit.

A large crowd attended the service on Sunday afternoon which was conducted by the West Toronto Salvation Army Band.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Sisson of Orillia are holidaying at Mr. Ed. Harrison's cottage.

Mr. H. Burton was in Toronto on Thursday in connection with his store robbery a few weeks ago. He returned with some of the stolen goods.

Barb and Rog Harrison of Toronto should be proclaimed "parents of the year." They left their wee daughter with Mrs. H. Burton, who was thrilled to have Lisa for a few days and started for a trip to the Laurentians. They just got as far as West Guilford when they decided their babe was more beautiful than any scenery they might see, so they turned around and came back.

Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Carney of Peterboro were the guests of Mrs. V. McBrien over the week end.
